

An Evening of Note Exclusive Symphony Performance and Auction to Benefit Richmond Symphony

The Richmond Symphony Orchestra League presents an elegant evening of musical enjoyment, delicious food and wine, dancing, art, along with a silent and live auction.

Richmond, VA - The Richmond Symphony Orchestra League will present “An Evening of Note” featuring a private Richmond Symphony concert, dancing, and a live and silent auction to benefit the Richmond Symphony on the evening of November 17, 2017 from 6-10 p.m. at the Richmond Country Club.

“The Richmond Symphony Orchestra League is honored to continue our support for the innovative and engaging outreach programs of our renowned Symphony,” said Ann Burks, RSOL President. “We are especially proud that a portion of the proceeds from ‘An Evening of Note’ will directly provide opportunities through the Goochland Education Foundation for Goochland County Public Schools elementary students to attend the Symphony’s educational Discovery Concerts and for Symphony ensembles to perform in Goochland schools.”

“An Evening of Note” will begin with a private concert by the Richmond Symphony Strings. Guests will have an opportunity to kick up their heels dancing to music performed by a Richmond Symphony jazz quartet. Local artists will create “art in the moment” with live painting as the evening unfolds. The resulting artwork will be available in the silent auction. A few of the exciting items available in the live auction are Richmond Forum tickets with dinner and a ski week at Wintergreen.

Tickets may be purchased online or by emailing info@rsol.org. Each ticket is $150 and includes the evening’s festivities and supports the Richmond Symphony.

About RSOL

Founded in 1958, the Richmond Symphony Orchestra League supports the growth and development of the Richmond Symphony. As a 501(c)(3) non-profit membership organization, dedicated volunteers develop robust programs and activities that contribute to Richmond’s cultural vibrancy and cultivate music appreciation and education amongst Richmond’s diverse community. The RSOL provides consistent, substantial financial support to the Richmond Symphony through annual fundraising, and an endowment and loan fund available to Richmond Symphony musicians.
